

The last Wednesday of February is known as Anti-Bullying Day in Canada. It's also known as "Pink Shirt Day". Originally started as a protest in 2007 against a bullying incident at a Nova Scotia high school, on this day participants are asked to wear pink to symbolize a stand against bullying. Bullying can take place anywhere, school, playground work-place or home. In what was originally thought to be a public awareness campaign about bullying has developed into an annual provincial, national and international event.

This is your invitation to make a difference in our community by wearing pink on February 27th.
